3, Japan

  Rain swung a bridge in darkness to a man, then, moments after, a woman.  It slashed the birches, their swaying whites like overlapping memories dashed

     black, encountering massive, rushing form:

                    a straw cape.